LAWYER'S WIFE IS STABBED TO DEATH BY MAID

Mrs. Dorothy Snyder, 47, of Cleveland, Victim.

WOMAN, 40, HELD

Butcher Knife Wielded In Quarrel Over Wages.

CLEVELAND, May 31.—Anna Szenan, 40, a domestic, killed her employer, Mrs. Dorothy Snyder, 47, wife of Alonzo Snyder, prominent Cleveland attorney, by stabbing her to death with a butcher knife early today.

Admits Killing.

The killing occurred in the palatial Snyder home in East Cleveland and the maid confessed following her arrest, according to police. The slayer had quarreled with Mrs. Snyder over her wages after Snyder left for his downtown office this morning, according to the story. The maid declares, according to police, that Mrs. Snyder seized a kitchen knife and attempted to attack her, that she wrested the knife from the older woman and stabbed her twice in the breast. The maid was uninjured.

After the slaying, Miss Szenan telephoned East Cleveland police, saying "there has been trouble." When police arrived they were met by the maid who took them to the kitchen where Mrs. Snyder's body lay on the floor, telling the officers simply: "I killed her."

Knife in Victim's Hand. Attorney Snyder told detectives the maid had been ill ten minutes yesterday afternoon when she demanded the afternoon off.

Police said there was a small knife in Mrs. Snyder's hand and that the large butcher knife with which she was killed lay beside the body.

Mrs. Snyder, before her marriage in 1921, was Miss Dorothy Marsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther S. Dickey, of Chicago.

Snyder has gained public attention in the last few months as one of the chief legal opponents of the Van Sweringen railroad interests. He was in court fighting a land case against the Van Sweringens, when he was notified of his wife's death.

G. H. Cartlidge and J. D. McGillivray Also Re-elected.

TWO NEW FACES

Officers Will Qualify at Atlantic City Convention.

President James M. Duffy and six of his eight fellow members of the executive board of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters were re-elected in the biennial balloting, it was announced today.

Hugh Church, Perth Amboy, N. J., named to succeed Joseph Smith, Philadelphia, who resigned as fifth vice-president, and Joshua Chadwick, Newell, who will replace James Slavin of this city, as seventh vice-president, are new members of the board.

Two Unopposed.

Duffy, now serving his first term as president, defeated R. H. Smith, Erwin, Tenn.

John McGillivray, this city, secretary-treasurer for eight years, and First Vice President George H. Cartlidge, Trenton, N. J., were unopposed.

Church, a grog ware worker, was a winner over Alex Young, Trenton. This is the first time that a worker in this branch of the ceramic industry has been elected to the executive board.

Joshua Chadwick was opposed by Floyd "Tally" Lusk for the seventh vice presidency. Slavin, who was appointed to the board to serve the unexpired term of Frank Hull, who became national organizer, was defeated in the primary election in March.

No Committees Named. Other vice-presidents who were re-elected were:

Second vice-president—George Chadwick, East Liverpool.

Third vice-president—Louis A. Driller, Trenton, N. J.

Fourth vice-president—William S. Davidson, Trenton, N. J.

Sixth vice-president—T. M. Woods, Sohorne.

No general committees were named at the election, this procedure having been eliminated by resolution enacted at the 1928 convention in East Liverpool.

The newly-elected officers will be installed at the annual convention which will be held in Atlantic City during the early part of July. The terms of offices will begin August 1.

RURAL STUDENTS VISIT O. S. U.

COLUMBUS, May 31.—(INS)—More than 1,700 Ohio high school students, the future farmers of the Buckeye state, swarmed over Ohio State university's campus grounds today.

Once again 145 rural-district high schools sent their representatives to the annual vocational and public-speaking contests which are sponsored by the college of education of the state's largest university.

The students will be guests of the university for two days.

A dairy-cattle judging contest was the first event of today's program. One hundred twenty teams, each composed of four boys, took part in the competition.

"What College Has to Offer" will be the subject of an address by Dean Alfred Vivian, of the college of agriculture.

Other events this morning included an agriculture engineering contest and poultry and wool judging meets.

General livestock, milk, grain and sheep judging will be a few of the contests to be held tomorrow.

LONDON, May 31.—The victorious sweep of the Labor party in the British general election grew in proportions this afternoon as returns poured in from all parts of the country. For the first time in history the Labor party returned more than 200 members to the house of commons.

Tabulation of the returns up to 3:30 o'clock this afternoon gave the Laborites 222 seats in the new parliament. Conservatives had 198; Liberals, 31, and others, five.

Premier Stanley Baldwin, Conserva-

Lloyd George, and former Laborite Lloyd George, had former Laborite Premier Ramsay MacDonald were all re-elected to the house of commons.

"Daddy" Browning Hires Arena For New York Party, June 17

Madison Square Garden Leased for Real Estate Auction.

BY DAVID P. SENTNER, (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, May 31.—Edward W. ("Daddy") Browning, whose public entertainments from time to time have attracted public attention, today announced the realization of a long-simmering ambition.

Browning has hired "the entire arena" of Madison Square Garden for a party on June 17.

It will be a real estate party—to auction off 58 pieces of Browning's property, valued by him at $5,000,000. The receipts will go to the Browning Foundation. Browning recently announced the foundation would aid various welfare works for children.

The parties of the eccentric millionaire always have been distinctive.

"Peaches" Browning, his estranged wife, during her divorce suit, testified to several unique parties.

Browning gave a "Santa Claus" party to the children of the city several months ago which ended in a riot and some broken bones.

The real estate man is also noted for his vegetarian parties and his dancing parties.

He company, located in the Meriden building in the Diamond will engage in the real-estate and insurance business.

KONJOLA ENDS 22 YEARS OF PAIN AND ILLS

"Five Dollars Spent For New Medicine Brought Me Thousands of Dollars Worth of Health."

MRS. S. A. ATCHISON.

"No wonder Konjola is called the master medicine," said Mrs. S. A. Atchison, 633 Waterlily avenue, Dayton.

"For twenty-two years I suffered from indigestion and kidney trouble and was unable to get any relief. I became worse, and as the years passed I came to the belief that there was no help for me. Gas and bloating followed every meal, and at times I feared my heart would cease to beat. Pains pierced my back constantly, and my kidneys got me up time after time at night."

"A number of friends urged me to try Konjola, and five dollars spent for this new medicine brought me thousands of dollars worth of health. I began to improve at once, and at the end of five weeks my health problems had been solved. I can eat anything I like; my sleep is sound and refreshing. The back pains are gone and my digestion has been restored. Wonderful, indeed, is Konjola."

Konjola is sold in East Liverpool at Carnahan's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section. —Adv.

TRIBUTE PAID WAR HEROES

Memorial Services Held At Spring Hill Cemetery.

A thousand or more persons paid tribute to the city's war heroes at Memorial day services yesterday morning at Spring Hill cemetery.

The dead and the living of the nation's conflicts were eulogized in the principal address of the day, delivered by State Representative William Weir, of Warren.

The speaker told of the important niche that this country has filled in international affairs and urged every individual to play his part in making it an even greater nation.

Brief services were held at the soldiers' and the sailors' monument in Fourth street and Riverside avenue.

Former service men, school children and citizens marched then to Spring Hill cemetery, headed by the American Legion band.

Here the crowd assembled around the new memorial speakers' stand, constructed on the G. A. R. lot.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. H. F. Post, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Edward T. Fogo gave Lincoln's Gettysburg address. The G. A. R. service followed Representative Weir's address and benediction by the Rev. Father E. J. Gracey closed the services.

BEAUTY DOCTORS OR REAL BEAUTY

Any Woman Who Desires Can Be Attractive When Well

You need not envy other women their magnetic qualities. You can be attractive yourself if you desire to. There is no better way to make a woman by which she can be both desirable and attractive. It is not by buying beautifiers either. They may help in bringing out the good features of those who are present before they can accomplish much. What constitutes real attractiveness in women is personal magnetism. Some of the ugliest featured women in the world have won the admiration of many. A really beautiful woman is always magnetic. She alone possesses the clear skin, the bright eyes, the lissome body, that constitutes real beauty.

Woman who are lethargic and heavy in their movements, whose skin lacks luster and whose eyes are dull, in a very large percentage of cases are suffering from lack of vitamins. Their bodies are failing to get the real values out of their food, and their organs are not throwing off the impurities from the blood. Instead of being active after removing the impurities from the blood, the kidneys are apt to be inflamed, and the stomach lacks tone. Why? Usually because our modern way of living makes for a sluggish congestion of the mucous membrane that lines the digestive tract, the lungs, and most of the rest of the body. That congestion slows up the vital processes, so that we cannot digest food well, and the blood must suffer. Sore kidneys and clogged skin cannot take off the bodily wastes, and the blood is not purified. Add to this the continued infection, and follow, and a woman's attractiveness will be reduced to a very low power.

These conditions are usually evidence of catarrh. Remove this catarrh, when it is removed by a proper treatment, and thus give the blood a chance to enrich every part of the body. Then the beauty will appear.

The secret of the attraction of many women right in this community is found in the clearing up of the system through the use of World's Tonic.

Its value in catarrh conditions is proven by the testimony of thousands.

When you are really well, you will always be attractive. Use World's Tonic to make you healthy and beautiful. It can be obtained at Carnahan's, also C. M. Brannan's at Weirton, or of any other first class druggist. (A-10)—Adv.

Learn-to-swim Campaign

Cognizant of the fact that rivers and creeks are magnets for boys, released from school work, during warm weather, thus claiming the lives of many persons who know the rudiments of the art of keeping afloat, as well as nonswimmers, the Young Men's Christian association will launch a one-week learn-to-swim campaign here next Monday.

Without expense to registrants, the East Liverpool branch of the association will teach boys between 10 and 16 years of age to swim and also save lives. Public and parochial school pupils will be given four lessons during the week by expert instructors.

Physical Director T. F. Scheffert has arranged a daily schedule for the boys who have signed enrollment cards which were distributed in the elementary school buildings. Lads who failed to return cards may enroll at the Y building.

During the last 19 years the Y. M. C. A. in North America has taught nearly two million men and boys to swim and nearly 200,000 to save life. In East Liverpool, last year, five men, 16 women and 91 boys mastered the art of swimming under instruction of the association, while 12 men and boys passed the Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. life-saving tests after learn-to-swim campaigns. In addition, special instruction in life-saving was given city firemen and power company employees.

The increasing drowning toll, no small part of which is due to the lack of knowledge of swimming, should prompt a record enrollment in the Y campaign. If you cannot swim, accept the association's invitation to learn. The week's instruction may prove the means of saving your life.

Dress And Beautification

The Merchants' association of New York has completed an analysis of the advance figures of the 1927 United States census of manufacturers which offers some decidedly interesting figures.

It is true that New York is not the United States, but the trend there may very well be taken to be indicative of that throughout the country. If this be true, womanhood's bill for beautification and personal adornment is going up by leaps and bounds, the increase being the more marked by comparison with the decreased outlay of the so-called lords of creation.

The output of clothing for men and boys, not including work clothing, in New York City in 1925 was $379,000,000. It dropped $19,000,000,000 in 1927 to $360,000,000, the wages of workers in factories producing these lines decreasing $417,000. The output of clothing for women and girls in 1925 was $1,068,000,000. During the next two years it increased $137,000,000 to $1,145,000.

The output for perfumes, cosmetics and toilet articles increased from $206,000,000 in 1925 to $256,000,000 in 1927. It may be said that the latter sum is just about $18,000,000 less than the cost of the fifteen 10,000-ton cruisers authorized in Uncle Sam's naval program. But there is this difference; the cost of the fifteen cruisers covers a building program of at least two and possibly three or four years, while the output of perfumes, cosmetics and toilet articles is that of 1927 alone in New York City. In a word, the cost of the cruisers over which the radicals and their pacifist friends protested so bitterly and so stoutly combatted is not comparable with what the people of the country are giving up annually in the hope of attaining personal beautification.

It may be noted that we say "the people of the country," rather than the women and girls of the country. We put it thus intentionally; for the purchasers of perfume, cosmetics and toilet articles are not limited to womanhood. Mankind is buying a considerable share.

Spirit of Americanism

The spirit which has made America a land where people do things that other people are afraid to try made two rookie aviators at Fort Worth, Texas, break the refueling endurance record against tremendous odds. They not only made aviation history, but they justified a feeling which Americans have that this is a country where nothing is considered impossible.

Confronted with the record set a few weeks ago by the elaborately outfitted army plane, "The Question Mark," the two men took the air in a plane which had seen service enough to be considered well on its way to old age and bettered the best previous time by almost a day. After having made a record of 172 hours and 32 minutes of non-stop flying, they expressed their willingness to stay up another 50 hours, but were forced down by a minor accident to the propeller. Nothing is impossible to the American.

Success has won for them an enviable reputation and enough money to repay them for the expense they incurred. It should be remembered, however, that when they took the air, they had everything to lose and nothing to gain. They were guaranteed their gasoline, and that was all. They had no up-to-date lubrication system, but depended on the pluck of Mechanic Robbins, a former cowboy, to climb out and grease the rocker arms with nothing under him but space and nothing to hold him up but that good old American spirit of which he has plenty.

At 4:05 p. m., May 26, the Fort Worth was forced down by a warped propeller which had been nicked by a buckle on Robbins' safety belt and valve trouble in the single engine which had held the two fliers aloft for more than a week. Future Americans may make better records, but to Kelly and Robbins, rookie fliers and never-say-die Americans, goes the credit of showing the world that it doesn't take a lot of fancy equipment to do great things.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 31.—The financial problems left over from the war were manifold, but Secretary of the Treasury Mellon had been in office but a few weeks before he took steps toward coping with them. Even while he was engaged in launching the tax reduction and economy measure, he also took up the tremendous problem of the debts of the Allies to the United States.

On June 21, 1921, when he had been in office less than four months, he addressed a letter to President Harding inviting his attention to the situation as it then existed. It must be remembered that there had been much agitation of plans to cancel the whole debt. This suggestion had been made in the glow of satisfaction over the winning of the war, but with little attention given the economic aspects of such a proceeding. Mellon knew that the suggestion was unsound. He knew what burdens this nation was required to shoulder and carry for many years. With keen foresight, born of his long banking experience, he foresaw that our own debt was of such magnitude that, unless what Europe owed us could be collected, taxes would have to remain high and the interest cost to the treasury continue immense, with a resultant depressing effect on the business of the whole country.

In this connection it is interesting to note that in his address last Armistice Day, President Coolidge declared that before we have finished paying for the war it will be evident that the United States bore the heaviest expense, and that the ultimate war bill will not be less than $100,000,000,000.

Secretary Mellon also understood that the Allies had difficult problems to meet and that the funding of the debt would have to be carried out in accordance with a delicately adjusted plan to prevent demoralization abroad and in the foreign exchanges. At that time, therefore, Mellon told the president that the debt of approximately $10,000,000,000 should be placed on a definite basis. Several debtors were in arrears with their interest. The evidences of indebtedness which they had given on receipt of the loans were in vague form. They were merely promissory notes and were payable on demand with no accompanying contract or agreement for retirement. Everybody knew that the term "on demand" meant nothing.

So it was Mr. Mellon who made the suggestion which led to the creation by congress of the World War debt commission. The president immediately on receipt of the secretary's letter, wrote to the chairman of the finance committee of the senate, and the ways and means committee of the house, asking that the suggestion be complied with. Appropriate legislation was immediately introduced and on February 9, 1922, became law. The act made the secretary of the treasury chairman of the commission.

The first action of the new body was characteristic of Mellon's cautious manner of approaching this touchy subject. A resolution was adopted requesting the secretary of state to inform the debtor nations that the commission had come into being and was ready to receive proposals from them looking toward the funding of the debt. No demand was presented at their chancelleries. They merely were invited to take the first step in suggesting a way out of the dilemma.

The debtor nations responded by announcing that they had appointed commissions to negotiate with the American body. France was the first to send such representatives, a commission headed by Jean V. Parmentier of the French treasury, arriving in July, 1922.

During the following months all the other debtors, who had not earlier come forward, either sent commissions which entered into preliminary and tentative discussions on capacity to pay, or gave notice of their intention to do so. Exceptions were Armenia, Greece, and Russia, which at that time had no governments recognized by the United States.

Mellon's commission has now concluded arrangements with all debtors with the exception of France and Greece. Tentative agreements have been negotiated with these countries but have not yet been ratified. As the result of the work of this commission the United States had collected to the end of the last fiscal year a total of $917,456,022—of which $152,552,048 represents repayment of principal and $764,903,974 of interest. Great Britain has paid several times as much as all the others put together.

"LOVE AND DEVIL" IS STATE BILL

The versatility of Hollywood was never more vividly exemplified than in the New First National picture, "Love and the Devil," starring Milton Sills, at the State theater today and tomorrow.

"Love and the Devil" is a story of modern Venice, of Africa and of London. Yet it was made in its entirety in Hollywood, with hundreds of various foreign types, with marvelous and stupendous sets, and all the atmosphere of the foreign climes.

Only in Hollywood could such a picture have been made, for here all types of extras are available, all the necessary properties and settings.

Maria Corda, the beautiful Hungarian actress, plays opposite the star. Miss Corda will be remembered for her vivid portrayal of Helen in "The Private Life of Helen of Troy," also produced by First National. This is her second American screen role.

Louis Wolheim and Phyllis Haver form a sort of beauty and beast combination in Miss Haver's new Pathé starring feature, "The Shady Lady," at the American theater today and tomorrow. Wolheim was borrowed from Caddo Productions to play the heavy in this feature, which is said to be one of the most dramatic picture productions of the current screen season.

Edward H. Griffith directed "The Shady Lady," and Havana, is the locale of the story. Jack Jungmeyer wrote "The Shady Lady" from a title suggested by Leonard Praskins and Richard Sharpe. Robert Armstrong plays opposite Miss Haver as a carefree American soldier-of-fortune who becomes embroiled in the operations of Wolheim, master mind of a band of gun runners.

"CELIA" IS SUNG IN BRIAN HIT

Mary Brian sings her first song on the screen in her latest picture, the all-talking love drama, "The Man I Love," in which she is co-featured with Richard Arlen at the Ceramic theater. She sings accompanied by a small portable phonograph. The song is "Celia," written especially for her and already popular as a radio number.

Miss Brian sings the song during an unusual love scene with Arlen. The action depicts their honeymoon trip in a "palace" stock car of the type used to transport racing stock and polo ponies. Richard Whiting and Leo Robin, well known composers, wrote the song and music and the record was made by Paramount's symphonic recording orchestra.

"The Man I Love," was written by Herman J. Mankiewicz, a former newspaper man, who took most of the dramatic and romantic incidents from thrilling front page news stories. Many of the incidents are easily recognized although they have been woven into an exciting and coherent story.

Women's Sensible Dress May Make Them Rulers

Unhealthful Clothing of Men May be Their Downfall.

With one fell swoop, Professor Leonard Hill, physiologist of the University of London, refutes the contention that women are killing themselves as a result of wearing sheer clothing, high heels, and all the rest of it.

In fact, Professor Hill says that women are becoming hardy amazons while men are losing their brawn, are becoming "collarbound and tuckered," and that women threaten to become the logical rulers of the world as a result thereof.

This is all very amazing. In our day, we were taught that woman's place was in the home, and even now, when they are taking the place of many men in factories and offices, we still say, "a woman's a woman for a that."

Maybe there's something to it at that. Take a stand on Main Street some Saturday night and watch your townsmen on their way to church, theater or dance. Do they impress you as being all he-men, with sturdy stride and stern men? No, come to think of it there's a new pallor about them, and a sartorial appearance that's just a bit—well, eh-feminine.

Take the new tight-fitting overcoats, for instance. Vests, which once men considered hindrance in their loose, unhampering form, are now being tucked so as to make them absolutely form-fitting. Trouserers are now undergoing similar treatment so as to give the waist that slender appearance.

Professor Leonard Hill

Now consider your townswomen. Walking in back of Mrs. Smith, your nearest neighbor, in her smart, jaunty sports suit, you sometimes have to look twice before you can tell whether it's Mr. and Mrs. Smith. Unhampered by long skirts, she walks down the main street with a proud and mighty stride.

KNOW YOUR JOB, DR. GUY TELLS 135 GRADUATES

Pittsburgh Educator
Stresses Requisite of Dependability.

QUOTES HUBBARD

Fred O. Glenn, of School
Board, Presents
Diplomas.

Never before in the history of the nation do greater possibilities face the high school graduates than today. Dr. J. Freeman Guy, associate superintendent of the Pittsburgh public schools, told 135 members of the high school graduating class at commencement exercises in the Ceramic theater, Wednesday night.

"The golden age is today and tomorrow," he said. "You should look forward, into the future, prepare yourself for the job just ahead of you, if you wish to succeed. His subject was 'A Message to Garcia.'

Glenn Lauds McVay.

The graduates were seated upon the stage of the theater. The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. W. T. McCandless of the Second United Presbyterian church, father of one of the graduates. Selections were sung by the class, a girls' chorus and a boys' glee club, directed by Prof. H. F. Laughlin. Music was in charge of the high school orchestra.

Dr. Guy was introduced by High School Principal B. G. Ludwig. The diplomas were presented by Fred O. Glenn, president of the board of education, who complimented the graduates upon their success and lauded C. S. McVay, retiring superintendent, for "raising the standard in the entire school system" during his four year term.

The Rev. A. H. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist church, whose son was one of the graduates, led the graduates in the Lord's prayer as a benediction.

Dr. Guy's Address.

Dr. Guy said in part:

"Elbert Hubbard tells the story of how Andrew Rowan carried a message to Garcia, the leader of the insurgent forces in the Cuban war. There are two outstanding qualities or attainments necessary to be able to carry messages today. The first is dependability. When the Rockefeller Foundation wanted some one to carry serum to Floyd Bennett in Quebec, they selected Lindbergh because of his dependability. Today we have hundreds of dependable people doing the world's work. Mail pilots, engineers, bus drivers, teachers, preachers, doctors, etc. The high school boy will succeed who is faithful to his task, who when given a job can be depended upon to finish it."

The second quality that is essential for doing big things is, that you must know your job. Andrew Rowan knew his job. Born in West Virginia he knew the wild life, wild country, the habits of wild animals and of crafty Indians, so that when he was asked to traverse the jungle of Cuba, he was undaunted. Lindbergh knows aviation. Study your job, get all the knowledge you can and can all you get. A high school education is worth $46 a day for every day spent in the four-year course. A college education is worth $100 a day for every day spent in the four-year college course.

"Study your job. Master it, know it better than any one else, then study the job just ahead of you, be ready for opportunity when she comes. Then you'll be invited to carry a message to Garcia."

Skin Spots and Stains Instantly Removed

A progressive chemist recently discovered a sure way of quickly removing ink spots, cigarettes and other stains, and dislocations from the skin. Simply dip little Persexine in water, a hot, wet cloth and rub gently until the spots disappear. The same procedure will clear the face of blackheads, oily, shiny skins and unsightly blemishes. Persexine disappears by osmosis. Magic! Get a small quantity of Persexine at your drug store, and always keep it on hand for such emergencies. —Adv.

SLENDERIZING LINES FEATURED

Posed by Dolores Del Rio

Nobody loves a fat woman! She's had her day now she must bow to the lean woman. But if she isn't exactly sylphlike, the least she can do is to wear clothes that will make her look it. The one-strap gown on the left, of silver metallic cloth, is calculated to give one that lovely slender line. The finger-tip length of the velvet cloak shows the flare of the gown, that reaches almost to the floor. Incidentally, this is an excellent feature for the lady whose legs are inclined to resemble the well known piano supports.

fog, enemy airmen would know just where to drop their bombs.

The plan would be to scatter over the landscape innumerable artificial fog regions, confusing the bombers, making it impossible for them to select a target with certainty.

WELLSVILLE DEFENDS LEAD IN NEWELL TILT TONIGHT

Loop Foes Clash For Top Berth

Victory Would Give Potters Place in Front.

After a temporary lull over the holiday, warfare will be resumed in the Inter-City Baseball league tonight when Roy Nicholson's Wellsville club, now leading the circuit again as a result of a victory over Chester, invades the Homer Laughlin baseball bairnwick.

The West Virginia Potters can go into first place in the loop by trimming the Wellsville nine in tonight's tilt. A defeat for Newell will send the Dickey combine into a tie with Burleigh Grimes at the foot of the ladder.

Laughlin and the Kates are tied in second place at the present time.

The Wellsville-Chester game of Monday was the only contest of the week, the Tuesday and Wednesday engagements having been postponed.

NEW AUTOMATIC STOKER TESTED

PORLAND, Ore.—A new automatic stoker and spark arrester for steam locomotives now being tested by the Great Northern Railroad is expected to prove a boon to the cinder-catching eyes of the traveling public and should eliminate the present fire hazard along the railroad's coal burning divisions.

The device, invented by F. M. Brown, fuel supervisor of the Northern Pacific, prevents cinders flying from the stack and conservatively gathers them back to the fire box to produce a maximum of heat.

BUSINESS CHIEFS IN SAFETY DRIVE

NEW YORK.—Twenty-three New York City industrial leaders have agreed to serve on a special committee being formed by the Merchants' Association of New York to direct an accident prevention campaign which the association will open among its industrial members.

Plans for the general campaign have been under way since January 1 when a special campaign among metal manufacturers was ended. This campaign was so successful that the association decided to invite all of its 2500 industrial members to participate in the new and broader campaign.

NEW FREE CLINIC IS ESTABLISHED

DENVER.—A free osteopath clinic for poor children, the first of its kind ever established, will soon begin operations here through the generosity of Dr. Florence Gair, wealthy New York woman.

Dr. Gair has been interested in social welfare work nearly her entire life. She is the daughter of the late Robert Gair, wealthy paper box manufacturer.

Dr. D. L. Clark of Denver, will be in charge of the new clinic.

To Preserve Rural England.

In its campaign to retain the beauty of the country, the Society for the Preservation of Rural England recently held in London an exhibition of several hundred photographs showing desecration of ancient landmarks and scenic beauty spots. Among the pictures were those of the disfigurement of the Warwick-to-Stratford-on-Avon road by signs blocking out trees and hedges; of the hiding of the ancient castle in Corte Village by a building; and another showing how the beautiful village of Wigton is plastered with signs, one picturesque cottage having 12 tire signs and four other enamel advertisements. The campaign is bearing fruit and an early cleanup of objectionable signs and buildings is predicted.

IT'S GRACIOUS! THE STYLE No. 2607 is a conservative dress of printed silk crepe, yet it has definite charm and elegance that makes it so suitable for afternoons. It is cleverly designed to conceal overweight with lovely molded bodice with slight blousing, and with hip yoke, split at center-front to insert a circular godet which combines with circular side sections of skirt at front to dip the hem to add length. Georgette crepe in navy blue, black silk crepe, printed cotton foulard in green and white dot pattern, tiny checked blue and white silk gingham, yellow-beige crepe Elizabeth and tomato red crepe de chine are becoming fabrics.

THE PATTERN designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust is offered at cost price 15 cents (stamps or coin) as a service to readers who sew. It takes but 3 3/8 yards of 40-inch material to make it in the 36-inch size, with 2 3/4 yards of binding. The Picture Chart included tells the secret of perfect fit, for it explains how every seam is joined in Picture Dressmaking Lessons.

In ordering pattern clip the design shown or order by number, and be sure to specify the size you want. Write your name and address plainly, enclosing 15 cents and mail to Fashion Department, East Liverpool Review. From 7 to 10 days are required for delivery of patterns.

NEW FASHION BOOK containing all the Spring styles is 15 cents, but may be obtained for 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

It resisted other cough medicine, but quickly yielded to your good Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. My druggist recommended it, said he had sold it for years with never a disappointed user." Stubborn bronchial coughs, troublesome night coughs, dry tickling coughs quickly helped. Ask for it.—Carnahan's 3 Drug Stores.—Adv.

A NEW SIX AT A PRICE WITHIN THE REACH OF MILLIONS

Be among the first to see what distinctive appearance and what remarkable performance Buick can build into a six at a price within the reach of millions. The Marquette will stand at the head of its price class as naturally as Buick leads its field. * Fitted with the latest design in closed bodies by Fisher, every line of this attractive new car spells style—but to appreciate the outstanding difference between the Marquette and cars of comparable price, you must judge it by performance. In this new six are the sparkle and snap, the responsiveness, balance, and ease of control of a truly fine car—with the added advantage of Buick-built sturdiness and stamina that mean uninterrupted service.

"Skins The Cat And Turns Hand-Springs" Now — Orange Root Did It

Mr. Alfred H. Van Dyne Was in Badly Rundown Condition Till "ORANGE ROOT" Pepped Him Up, Energized His Whole System and Made an Active and Robust Man of Him — Feels Exhilarated All Over Says.

If you feel 'all-in', tired and worn-out, have no pep or ambition, life seems just a drag, are gloomy and despondent, for heavens sake, snap out of it, go at once to MATHEWS MEDICINE STORE, get a course of ORANGE ROOT, take it according to directions, and you too, will soon be feeling as peppy and full of life as Mr. Alfred R. VanDyne, of 750 Leonard street, East Liverpool, Ohio. Mr. VanDyne is employed at the Bennett Grocery Co., here and is well known and highly respected by all who know him. Being in a run-down condition and feeling mighty mean, he took a course of ORANGE ROOT Iron and Celery Compound and here is what he says: "It amazed me how quickly all signs of fatigue and tiredness left me after taking only a few doses of ORANGE ROOT I have taken 2 bottles now, and FEEL LIKE A DIFFERENT PERSON. My whole system seems energized and stimulated. I am stronger in every way, sleep just fine at night, and the best of it, I get up in the mornings feeling peppy and ready for the days work. It seems as tho I am hungry all the time now, and everything I tastes good to me. It certainly has peped me up and strengthened me all over. The Nuggets are wonderful laxatives and liver stimulators. This ORANGEROOT is the REAL thing for anyone in a weakened, rundown condition, and I heartily recommend it. This great combination of Golden Seal, Nux Vomica, Celery Seeds, Gentian and host of body building and strengthening herbs combined with IRON, is the world's most famous blood purifier, appetizer, nerve force creator, and system strengthener. If you suffer from rheumatism, neuritis, indigestion, ulcerated stomach, have boils, pimples and other signs of impure blood, feel tired and have no pep or appetite, go at once to MATHEWS MEDICINE STORE, where Mr. H. L. Kaut is daily introducing and explaining this wonder tonic, get a treatment of 3 bottles of it and a box of the golden Nuggets, take them regularly, and WATCH the SPEEDY and PERMANENT improvement in your condition. Hundreds upon hundreds right here in East Liverpool endorse and recommend these nationally famous health-builders. Take them yourself and GET WELL. Prices TONIC $1.25, Nuggets 50c. Add 10c extra for parcel post charges if you wish them mailed out of town.

Mr. Craig's Premonitions

Shivering in his flannel pajamas and green oordrom slippers, J. Pendleton Craig stood at the window and contemplated a bleak landscape and a lowering sky. It was a typical March morning, with a humid chill in the air, and a thin sprinkling of snow flurries cavoring among the leafless trees. In the distance, waves capped with mottled foam pounded the rocky Connecticut shore line with a dismal roar and shout.

Mr. Craig turned away and started to dress. He did not like these gloomy, raw-winded mornings, especially when he was in one of his periodical states of depression. At such times, doo skies aggravated his melancholy mood. The whine of the wind and the fretful din of the waves filled him with doleful forebodings that were as distressing as they were indefinable. He felt, on these occasions, that somber omens were trespassing on the sheltered seclusion of Tuckaway Camp, as he called the stately country home to which he invariably retired when he felt one of his dolorous moods coming on.

Despite its desolate surroundings, Tuckaway Camp had advantages that were lacking in Mr. Craig's little home on 5th avenue. For one thing, it offered a detachment from business cares and afforded the absolute rest of which his nerves were in need. Further, he could enjoy here a privacy and a safety from intrusion that were impossible in the city. While he could not escape from the shapeless misgivings that always assailed him at certain times, and especially on gloomy days, Tuckaway Camp gave him a sense of security that was unmatched elsewhere. As far as the world at large was concerned, Mr. Craig merely dropped out of sight when he left the city for his country home in Connecticut. It was understood that the doctor had ordered him away for a rest, but his destination, known only to his charming young niece, his private secretary, and a handful of tried and trusted servants, was never divulged. So carefully did he guard his movements on such occasions that not more than six persons knew his whereabouts, and those could be trusted not to talk. As for the inhabitants of the village half a mile back from the shore line, they rarely came in contact with the occupants of Tuckaway Camp, and their curiosity concerning them went ungratified.

Undeniably, J. Pendleton Craig looked the part of one harassed by secret worries. He was long, lumpy, and narrow-chested, with a pinched, sallow face, a rather feeble jaw, and cavernous eyes set wide apart and so restless that it was hard to determine their exact shade, though one guessed they were yellowish brown. His head was bald on top, but wisps of white hair sprawled in kinks and curls along the sides and back, defying the discipline of comb and brush.

He was 55, but a nervous breakdown five years ago had made him look a decade older. There was something distinctly somber about his physical appearance, and this he tried to offset by a peppery and blustering manner and by affecting garments whose cut and color strained the inhibitions imposed on a dignified man of affairs.

It was no secret that Mr. Craig was an extremely wealthy man and that the firm of Craig & Sarg was one of the most aggressive and prosperous brokerage houses in New York. It was now a one-man concern, the junior member having died some years since, but its far-reaching activities were so thoroughly organized that its founder's frequent absences did not in the slightest degree affect the smooth running order of the establishment. Mr. Craig sometimes boasted that he had gained his enviable position in the financial world through pluck and hard work, plus an occasional stroke of good luck. He had made the boast so often that he had almost convinced himself it was true. It had a hypnotic, soothing flavor of which his nerves were sadly in need, especially on gloomy days like the present. In periods of acute depression he would fortify himself with the argument that no one could accuse him of having gained his wealth dishonestly, that as far as any one knew he had conducted himself in strict accordance with the law. It was true, for the only man who could have disputed this lofty contention was dead.

It was a satisfying reflection, though somewhat incongruous in view of Mr. Craig's mental state. It left one wondering why he was so singularly susceptible to exterior disturbances, such for instance, as the banging of a door, the squeak of a hinge, or the rattling of the windows at night. For a man wholly at peace with himself, Mr. Craig showed bewildering symptoms of an uneasy conscience, and they had been particularly noticeable since his illness of five years ago. He could not stand noises, especially casual and unnecessary ones. In his town house he often made the rounds late at night, after the servants had retired, to see if the doors were properly locked and incidentally to apply a few drops of oil to the hinges. He preferred to perform this menial task himself, for he was ashamed of his little weaknesses and had a dread of being laughed at behind his back. He could not afford to let it be known that J. Pendleton Craig, the prominent financier, was squeamish about a squeaking hinge.

Having bathed, shaved and dressed, Mr. Craig descended to the breakfast room, whose tall French windows looked out over the tossing waves of the Sound. His niece, the embodiment of all the freshness and bloom of twenty years, who had made her home with him since the death of her mother, was waiting for him. Julia Wayne was a slim, dark-eyed, vivacious girl with sun-browned cheeks, whose unpolished charms seemed to mock the somber and ponderous walls of Tuckaway Camp.

"Hullo, Old Bear!" was her sprightly greeting, accompanied by a smile that would have melted the reserve of a wooden Buddha, but had no effect on Mr. Craig.

The nickname she had bestowed on him, which would have sounded impudent coming from any one else, was transmuted into affectionate manner by the light kiss she pressed on his cheek. "Hope you slept well?"

"Moderately," said Mr. Craig, seating himself. He was in the act of attacking his grapefruit, but just then his glance fell on a letter lying beside his plate. He betrayed his surprise with a start and a sharp arching of the brows. Letters were a rarity at Tuckaway Camp, and this one bore neither stamp nor postmark. The envelope showed only the typewritten line, "Mr. J. Pendleton Craig."

"Who brought this?" he inquired, pointing to the letter.

"Nobody brought it, Old Bear. It just came here." Mr. Craig frowned at the unsatisfactory reply. He looked narrowly at the superscription without touching the letter, trying to conceal from his niece the astonishment he felt. With outward calm he inserted the spoon into his grapefruit.

"I trust you haven't communicated with anybody since we came here?" he questioned gravely.

"Of course not, Old Bear. You told me I mustn't, and this cloistered existence is too romantic for words. I wouldn't spoil it by letting any outsider in on our secret."

Mr. Craig scanned her flower-like face. "Don't know about the romantic part of it, but I depend on you to be discreet. As you know, the doctor told me I must have absolute rest. No interruptions or disturbances of any sort. Consequently we must maintain the strictest privacy."

"Privacy? Captivity is the word. But I don't mind in the least. It's absolutely thrilling! And I've been so discreet it almost hurts me."

"But this letter?" Mr. Craig scowled again. "My private secretary is the only person, except ourselves and the servants, who knows where I am, and I am sure he didn't send it."

"Why not open it and see?" was Julia's practical suggestion.

The Spook Letter

But Mr. Craig, for some mysterious reason, could not trust himself to open the letter in his niece's presence. There was a possibility that the contents would prove disturbing, and if so, they were better examined when he was alone.

"It can wait," he declared. "I am just curious to know how it came here. Some one must have brought it."

Everett Ash, Washington street, Newell, W. Va., gives Owa-Ton-Na. He says: "For the past year I have just about been a nervous wreck. My whole system seemed to be run down, my stomach was in terrible condition. food of any kind distress

Although Owa-Ton Na has been sold in East Liverpool and vicinity but a short time, the many friends and loud praise which it has received, prove without question the value of nature's own roots, herbs, barks and berries as formulated in this compound in bringing back health. This fine old Indian Remedy has been so successful in kidney, liver, stomach and intestinal disorders, rheumatism, neuritis, nervousness and a general run-down condition of health that many now depend on it whenever they are not feeling just right.

Results are obtained not through the use of dangerous, harmful, doping drugs but by nature's own remedies as originally used by the Indians. Even today many of the remarkable results obtained by the Indians are unexplainable by science. These secrets were the knowledge of the Indian alone and but very few have come into possession of the white man—Owa-Ton-Na is an original Indian formula scientifically prepared so that the contents may be intact when you receive them. A special laboratory representative is now located at Carnahan's Drug Store, 114 East Sixth street, East Liverpool, who will be glad to tell you all about the merits of this remedy. This service is free and incurs no obligation.

Those suffering from nervous run-down condition should find a lot of hope in the endorsement which Mr.

ed me, gas would form so bad at times that I felt miserable. My head ached so bad it felt as though it would split open. Backaches and dizzy spells had me worried lots of times.

"I was so nervous at times that I could hardly talk to anyone. I tried so many medicines that I was completely discouraged. Nothing seemed to do me any good. When I first decided to try Owa-Ton-Na I was almost afraid to take it since so many medicines had made me sick. Owa-Ton-Na is different than anything that I have ever taken. Even the first bottle gave me wonderful results. My stomach started to function normally, food digested the way it should and my appetite picked up wonderfully."

"My bowels now function normally, headaches and backaches as well as dizzy spells are a thing of the past. I have new pep and energy. I want to say that Owa-Ton-Na is a remarkable medicine and I recommend it to anyone who is suffering."

Owa-Ton-Na has helped so many even after all other methods tried, had failed, that surely you, too, even though you are discouraged, should at least give it a trial. Call at Carnahan's Drug Store, 114 East Sixth street, and have a talk with the special laboratory representative while this service is available. Owa-Ton-Na is also obtainable at Carnahan's East End Store and Newell, W. Va. store.

Persistency Should Win But Ill-Fortune His Lot

Thirteen Races All Saw
American Colors
Lead Way.

Seventy-eight years ago the schooner or yacht "America" had sailed across the ocean and being off Britain at the time of the race for the Royal Yacht Squadron cup sailed off the Isle of Wight decided to compete. This was the original "America's Cup" race for the trophy won at that race has since been named for the first winner.

The "America" won by so wide a margin that when the Queen of England, watching the race from a spectator yacht, was asked what yacht was next, she replied, "There is no second." The cup won at this time still repose in the New York Yacht club.

The deed of gift provides stringent regulations regarding challenges which shall give ten months' notice naming the day for the proposed races and the name of the owner of the challenging boat which must sail across the ocean to compete.

Thirteen challenges have been made of which Sir Thomas Lipton has made the last four with his series of "Shamrocks." In 1920 the challenge for which was given in 1914, but postponed by the World war. Charles Francis Adams, now secretary of the navy, sailed the famous old "Resolute," the American defender. Races had preceded this last one in 1870, 1871, 1876, 1881, 1885, 1886, 1887, 1893, 1895, 1899, 1901 and 1903.

Now it seems probable that Sir Thomas will try his luck again in 1930 with a new challenger named "Shamrock V." You certainly have to give the big tea man credit for trying mighty hard. Nothing would bring this ardent yachtman more satisfaction than bringing the famous cup back to England, but ill luck has dogged his attempts.

Sir Thomas Lipton.

Artificial and ornamental flowers sent from Paris to this country last year were valued at $671,482, as compared with $1,055,022 in 1927.

More than 1,000,000,000 tickets, weighing 500 tons, were used by London buses in the last 12 months.

UNKNOWN AND UNSUNG FOLKS DO THEIR BIT WITH "GREATEST SHOW"

By James L. Kilgallen,
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.

only Ringling and one or two others have.

Strident music was playing as we strolled around among other buildings, gaping at the elephants, the tigers, the zebras the chimpanzees and the rest of the menagerie. Our guide informed us that on the lot, getting ready for the trek North, were 650 horses, 35 ponies, 30 camels and 40 elephants.

Feature Acts.

He spoke proudly of one of the feature acts—"the human projectile." A man who was shot out of a cannon. Also an act that featured twenty-eight women riding ménage horses—that is, "steppers" and "waltzers." He showed us the elephant, "Goliath," who weighs 8,400 pounds and we had our picture taken snuggled beneath the animal's trunk.

Cleo Webber, an attractive woman in riding habit, was introduced. Her act was high jumping with a horse.

She told International News Service she holds the world's record—7 feet 4 inches over the hurdles—which she established at Lebanon, Tenn., in 1922.

Over near a corral, off to one side of the circus ground, were a dozen girl "trick riders" going through their final stunts. Good-looking, athletically built young women—typical of circus life, that is all but one. She was Agnes Coleman, 19, of Sarasota, a wealthy local girl who was ambitious to be a trick rider. She was good, too, and it seemed that she emulated very well the stunts of such fine riders as Myrtle Compton of Sheridan, Wyoming, and Peggy Murray, of Boston, two of the most daring riders who ever rode a horse at breakneck speed with one leg over their heads.

Mother Magdalen, a director of Providence Roman Catholic Convent, Wood, England, the only nun connected with a public company, died recently.

All that was to be expected, but the real surprise came to the visitor upon entering some of the buildings on the Ringling grounds. In one huge building, which reminded me of the dirigible hangar at Lakehurst, N. J., were quartered scores of women working on what they called the costume department. Never have I seen so many costumes in one place. Costumes for all occasions—full dress, clown getups, the glistening gowns of the women riders of high stepping horses, the uniforms of the bands, et cetera.

Women Do Sewing.

Women employees, sitting at sewing machines, were pumping away, stitching costumes, flags and various bizarre-looking sheets of cloth. On hangers, almost as far as the eye could see, were costumes, one after another—a great lineup of glistening clothes. The clown's getup, the woman bareback rider's habit, the ballroom man's suit, the ringmaster's full dress—and so on. A glittering, sparkling array.

And over at one end of this huge building was the "harness department." I was introduced to the man in charge, Louis Panzer. He is stone blind. Yet he has been with Ringling for years and is indispensable. He was in charge of the repairing of the great rows of saddles, and other trappings that go with a stable such as

MISS MARY LYNCH ASKS $20,000 DAMAGES IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

George E. L. Howe and Corydon Arnold, Wellsville, are Named in Suit.

LISBON, O., May 31.—As a result of injuries suffered in an automobile collision at the intersection of Pennsylvania avenue and Mulberry street, East Liverpool, last Nov. 29, Miss Mary Lynch, through her counsel, Brookes & Thompson, has filed a $20,000 damage action against George E. L. Howe and Corydon Arnold of Wellsville.

The petition says the plaintiff was about to turn her car into Mulberry street, when defendant's machine crashed into it.

The plaintiff at the time was a restaurant manager at a salary of $35 weekly and, because of the time she spent in a hospital, she suffered a loss in wages of $759, she says. The petition charges the defendants with negligence and recklessness.

VERA BROOKS DENIED DIVORCE

After the examination of nearly a score of witnesses, Judge W. F. Jones refused to grant a decree of divorce to Mrs. Vera Brooks against her husband, Willis Brooks, a former automobile salesman at East Liverpool, but now employed at Salem. The plaintiff is a minor, and the suit was brought by her next friend, Lydia Alford.

The court ordered that the defendant pay his wife $10 a week and other necessary expenses, and all temporary alimony now in arrears. The costs have been placed against Brooks.

MISS MERRIMAN, OF SALEM, WEDS

Floyd Brunton of Niles and Miss Jeanette Merriman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Merriman, Salem, were married at the parsonage of the Lisbon Methodist Episcopal church by the Rev. C. N. Church.

Joseph Young, of Salem, and Miss Lena Callahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Callahan of Leetonia, R. F. D., have been granted a marriage license.

J. W. Howell Divorced. On the grounds of gross neglect of duty, John W. Howell has been divorced from his wife, Fannie E. Howell. The defendant's prayer for alimony was refused by the court.

Note Case in Court Again. In the case of Elmer Boals and others against Charles Colwell and others, an action on a note, the court has granted leave to the defendants to file an answer to the supplemental petition. Judgment by confession was entered in favor of the plaintiffs for $161.35 last November. Later the court, on motion, vacated the judgment.
